2. An increase above the normal in the volume of Soviet transports passing through the FRANKFURT/Oder area in February 1959 was not maintained in March, when traffic reverted to normal.

3. During the first fortnight of March, however, there was a considerable increase above normal in the volume of Soviet troops and equipment loaded in FRANKFURT/Oder (ex transit barracks) [] which were then attached, 4 or 6 25X1 at a time, to scheduled goods trains running to various destinations in East Germany. There have always been isolated instances of this in the past, but this month has shown a remarkable increase in such traffic.

4. The numbers [] held in RBA 7 at the disposal of the Soviet authorities has remained constant in recent months. 25X1
